

SPONSOR A SCHOLAR

If you believe in the transformative power of education, and building relationships of solidarity, consider sponsoring an Andean Friend!

With an annual donation of $850, you can help a Bolivian student reach their goals in higher education. You'll get to know your student and follow their progress throughout the year.

Scholarships for students are critical, not only to their education, but also to improving the education of future teachers, parents, professionals, and community leaders.

BQEF maintains its assistance for the duration of the student's university studies. That commitment, and the need for additional scholarships each year, require continued support from Quakers in the Global North.

$850 supports a one-year sponsorship, including monthly stipends of $60 for ten months and staff support for counseling and tutoring. While university tuition in Bolivia is free, most students cannot afford supplies, internet, transportation, and other expenses associated with a university education.

A monthly recurring donation of $75 helps secure funding for the duration of the student's university program. It also allows BQEF to dedicate more resources to educational programming and less to fundraising and administration.

To sponsor a student, please click on the link below and submit the Sponsorship Application Form or contact us at info@bqef.org and we will gladly mail you a paper copy of the application.
